One-of-a-Kind Treasures at the Tourism Moose Jaw Gift Shop

Whether you're visiting for the first time or a longtime local, the Tourism Moose Jaw Gift Shop is your go-to spot for unique and locally inspired souvenirs! Located inside our Visitor Centre (yes, the one with Mac the Moose!), our shop is filled with an incredible selection of gifts, keepsakes, and Moose Jaw-themed treasures.

Looking for the perfect way to remember your trip? We carry everything from postcards and apparel to handmade pottery, jewelry, and home decor crafted by talented local artisans. Our newest addition, the Kids Zone, offers fun souvenirs for our youngest visitors, including plushies, books, and toys.

Supporting local businesses is at the heart of what we do, and we're proud to showcase products from creators right here in Moose Jaw and across Saskatchewan. Whether you're grabbing a handcrafted mug, a delicious treat from a local maker, or an iconic Mac the Moose souvenir, every purchase helps support the community.

Next time you're in town, be sure to stop by and browse our collection—you never know what hidden gems you'll find!

Dancing on River Street

21 Fairford St. E. (north wall)

This mural offers a romantic retrospective glimpse of the exciting nightlife of River Street in the 1920's.

For the Veterans

32 Manitoba St. W. (west wall)

The Mural was created to honor all the Veterans who fought, and are still fighting to provide us with the freedoms we enjoy, and take for granted.

A Tribute to Lewis Rice

70 Stadacona St. W.

The Mural is a tribute to Lewis Rice, an early Moose Jaw resident and Photographer. Using the equipment of the time, he created valuable historic records of rural and City life, especially the scenery and buildings.

Living with the Land

55 Ominica St. W.

This Mural pays honour to the Lakota Sioux, Cree, Assiniboine, Metis, and other first nation people who made Camp at THE TURN, in the Moose Jaw Valley, a natural oasis in the prairie that provided shelter, wood, water and food, and was mainly used in the winter.

Cruising Main Street

217 Main St. N.
(behind the building)

A lively scene of Moose Jaw's Main Street in the 20's.

Breaking New Ground

80 High St. W. (north wall)

Representing the pioneer's hopes of a golden future by "proving his land" 5 acres per year for 5 years to obtain title of ownership.

Sunday School

60 Hochelaga St. W.

This mural pays tribute to Eva Hasell and Winifred Tricehurst who did missionary work in the district in the 1920's.

Sunday Outing

105 Ominica St. W. (east wall)

A delicately painted view of an engagement party boating on the Moose Jaw River.

The Lady and the Cow

602 Main St. N. (west wall)

For pioneer women on the prairies a cow was a prized possession. The lady is Mrs. Elizabeth Elliot.

Fire Watch

100 Fairford St. W. (east wall)

The Mural celebrates the history of the Moose Jaw Fire Department. The past of ours, and other communities contain stories of devastating fires, and the effort of firefighters to protect life and property.

Postcards from Moose Jaw

Kiwanis Pavilion, 301 River Dr

This mural is a tribute to the Wakamow Valley, while many of the original houses and businesses that were once there are gone, without the valley, and the accompanying water, Moose Jaw would likely not exist.

Riding for the Brand

38 High St. W. (east wall)

Commissioned by Saskatchewan Stock Growers on their 100th Anniversary and dedicated to honour past and current Cattlemen and Cattlewomen of Saskatchewan. Riding for the Brand is an old west term for a loyal and dedicated Ranch Hand, and the Mural shows an early scene of driving cattle to the Rail yard, with a photo of the original Saskatchewan Stock Growers founders in the center.

The Last Dambuster

212 Main St. N. (south wall)

Ken Brown, a Moose Jaw native, flew with the famous Dambuster Squadron during World War II and was awarded the CGM. The operation, bombing dams in Germany, was one of great difficulty, demanding very low flying and a high degree of skill and courage and close cooperation with the crews of the aircraft engaged. Flying Officer Robert Alexander Urquhart DFC, another Moose Jaw native, was also part of the Dambuster mission, but his Plane was damaged in the bomb drop, and then gunned down on the return to base, killing all on board.

Collage of Lost Murals

88 2nd Avenue N.W. (River Street wall of McKarrs Furniture)

Completed in 2017 to remember our lost Murals, that were loved, and are missed. "Remember Old 80" was Moose Jaw first Mural, and was lost when the building was demolished. Another favourite "River Street Red" was destroyed by fire. "The Incorporation of the City of Moose Jaw" was lost to demolition while the "Moose Jaw Union Hospital Mural" and "Our Ukrainian Heritage" were lost to remodelling. "Summer Games" was lost to deterioration. Since 2007 our Murals have been painted on panels, so hopefully no more will be lost.

The Mad Greek Mural

925 Main St. N. (north wall)

This mural was created in honour of the Greek restaurant owners who operated the Ambassador Cafe, all three Rodos Pizza restaurants as well as The Mad Greek. From 1963 to present day. Gus and Freda Iatridis, Jim and Irene Kourles, George and Helen Iatridis, Nick and Freda Hasapis, Nick and Kathy Furlas. They were very proud Moose Javians and their legacy lives on to this day through Rodos (which is still family owned and operated by Peter Iatridis) and The Mad Greek, which John Iatridis opened and has operated since 2002.

Boh's Cycle Murals

821 Main St. N.

Over the past four years, Boh's Cycle has added three stunning murals to its exterior, all painted by Carly Smith. The first, completed in 2021, features a cyclist riding through a forest and adorns the front of the store. In 2022, the north side gained a mural blending Boh's branding with a prairie landscape. Most recently, in 2024, the south side came to life with a nighttime prairie sky and bikers staying active under the stars.

Experiences

Prairie Bee Meadery: Let your pup stretch their legs in the Barking Lot, a designated off-leash area, while you enjoy a tasting. Well behaved, leashed pets are also welcome on tours!

Wakamow Valley: With scenic trails open year-round, this natural gem is perfect for long walks and outdoor adventures with your furry friend.

Tourism Moose Jaw Visitors Centre: Snap a photo with Mac the Moose, then step inside to explore the gift shop, local art displays, a fun "mini city," and the best travel tips for you and your pet.

Buffalo Pound Provincial Park: Hit the trails for a scenic hike or bike ride, or cool off with a swim in the lake—there's plenty of room for both you and your pet to roam!

Unravel the Secrets of Moose Jaw – One Mystery at a Time!

Have you ever wondered if you'd make it as a bootlegger during Prohibition? Or perhaps you'd prefer exploring a scenic urban park? Maybe you're ready to test your trivia skills to the max?

If you said yes to any of these, Tourism Moose Jaw Mysteries is your perfect adventure!

What You'll Need:

- A data-enabled smartphone—that's it!
- Purchase your game code through our website, and we'll email you everything you'll need to get started.
- Simply download the Social Scavenger App, create your team, and start your adventure!

Whether you'd rather take it slow and enjoy a bite at a local pub or pop into a shop for a little retail therapy halfway through, or if you're in the mood to rev up the competition for your next team-building event, ladies' night, birthday party, or family reunion; these flexible, fun tours have got you covered. Affordable and engaging, they'll have everyone smiling.

Saskatchewan!

Explore, Snack, Dance & Discover – Downtown Comes Alive at Sidewalk Days!

Nothing says summer in Moose Jaw quite like the annual Moose Jaw Kinsmen Sidewalk Days Festival. This three-day event draws approximately 25,000 people to the heart of downtown Moose Jaw, where visitors can explore a vibrant assortment of retail vendors, food trucks, and information booths hosted by service clubs, churches, sports teams, and more.

Let's not forget the stellar entertainment lineup! The Grant Hall Main Stage showcases talented Saskatchewan musicians on Thursday and Friday, while Saturday brings the excitement of Watervision's Battle of the Bands. From folk and rock to country and pop, these performances promise to get everyone dancing in the streets.

As you stroll through the festival, you'll encounter a lively mix of buskers, dancers, artists, magicians, and even fairytale characters—truly something for everyone. Be sure to check out the Déjà Vu Dual Zone, featuring two competition-style inflatables designed for older kids, teens, and adults. Challenge a friend or family member for some friendly, adrenaline-filled fun. The biggest highlight of course is the Moose Jaw Ford Children's Village. Packed with bouncy houses, Velcro walls, and obstacle courses, it's an absolute paradise for kids. Add in face painting, balloon artists, and the Moose Jaw Co-op Kids Chill Tent, it's the ultimate hub for family fun and the best part is that it's all free!

For a notoriously fun experience, head to Main Street on July 3rd, 4th, and 5th to immerse yourself in this incredible summer celebration! For up-to-date information, announcements and more please follow our Facebook page : facebook.com/MJSidewalkDaysFestival

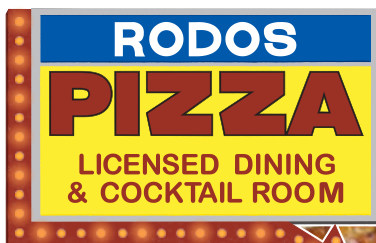

RODOS PIZZA

The Best in Town!

Our families have operated one of Moose Jaw's favorite family dining spots since 1963, the tradition of great quality continues today! Rodos customers say we have the best pizza in town- come visit us today and decide for yourself!

We really do have something for everyone. Other favourites include steak, pasta, chicken dishes, cutlets, ribs, sandwiches, our clubhouse and hamburgers. Our Hofbrau Menu (dine in only) on Mondays and Tuesdays brings a taste of San Francisco Hofbrau style restaurant to Moose Jaw. Our roast turkey and roast beef is real turkey and real beef cooked in the restaurant.

Timeless Treasures – Heritage Buildings of Moose Jaw

Downtown Moose Jaw is full of historic buildings, and while we'd love to tell you about them all, we don't have enough space in this guide! We have highlighted a few prominent ones; for more, check out Bruce Fairman's books in our gift shop, hop on a Historic Daytime Trolley Tour, or visit the City of Moose Jaw website.

City Hall – 228 Main St. N.

Moose Jaw City Hall is a Municipal Heritage Property located on four lots at the southwest corner of Main Street North and Fairford Street West in downtown Moose Jaw. The 3½-storey Tyndall stone and brick-clad building was constructed between 1911 and 1914. Constructed for the Dominion Government it served as a post office and housed other government agencies such as customs, and eventually, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. In 1963, the City of Moose Jaw purchased the building to accommodate city council chambers, municipal departments and the local police service. It was built during the height of a pre-World War I boom period in the community, the building's large scale and substantial $281,000 cost was a symbol of the optimism which both the Dominion Government and local residents placed in Moose Jaw's future.

Moose Jaw Public Library

– 461 Langdon Crescent

The Moose Jaw Public Library is a Municipal Heritage Property located downtown in the City of Moose Jaw's Crescent Park. The property features a two-storey brick and limestone clad building completed in 1913. Built during 1912-13, at the height of the pre-World War I boom that saw population and construction activity rapidly increase in Moose Jaw, the library was a significant addition to the community. Skeptical of Moose Jaw's population claims, the Carnegie Foundation, which funded libraries in other communities, rejected Moose Jaw's 1911 request for $50,000 to construct a library. Local leaders disregarded this setback and showed great confidence in their city by investing $100,000 of their own finances to build and furnish a library that was designed to handle the needs of a community with a population five-times larger than Moose Jaw had at the time. The only building with more marble in all of Saskatchewan is the Legislative Assembly in Regina.

Moose Jaw Centre for Arts & Culture

— 217 Main St. N. (former Capitol 3 Theatre)

The former Capitol 3 Theatre is a Municipally designated Heritage Property located near the intersection of Main Street and Fairford Street in downtown Moose Jaw. The concrete two-storey brick-clad building was built in 1916. Architect James C. Teague designed the building and provided it with decoration that was intended to attract and impress patrons and made it a prominent part of the streetscape. Included among these are reliefs depicting cherubs, masks and crests of the Allen Theatre chain which appear on the ornate plaster ceilings and walls of the theatre chamber. Other interior decoration includes a foyer with a vaulted plaster ceiling decorated using reliefs and polychromy. Exterior decoration such as the Allen Theatre crest, cornice, pilasters, a replica steel canopy, vertical signage and light fixtures add to the prominence of the building and told patrons of the quality of entertainment offered within.

The Capitol Theatre stands as a timeless gem, blending historic charm with vibrant performances.

The Old CPR Station is a heritage-designated railway station built between 1920-1922. Chosen as a divisional point by the Canadian Pacific Railway (CPR) due to its central location and water availability, the station played a vital role in Moose Jaw's development as a key railway hub. Designed by Hugh G. Jones in the Beaux-Arts style, the station features a six-storey clock tower, a two-storey waiting hall, and single-storey wings, all clad in Tyndall stone and red brick. Its grand architecture includes tripartite windows, pendant lighting, intricate terra cotta detailing, and a rusticated stone base, reflecting its prominence in the cityscape. Interior elements such as decorative medallions, reliefs, and mouldings enhance its elegance, while railway-specific features like a ticket office, waiting benches, and "To Trains" signage highlight its original function. A bronze plaque honoring CPR employees' war efforts and exterior reliefs of a ship, locomotive, and CPR crest emphasize the station's historical importance. Located at the terminus of Main Street North, next to the railway tracks and a complementary four-storey building, the Old CPR Station remains a symbol of Moose Jaw's railway heritage and economic significance.

church on this site since 1888, it has been a central place of worship for the community. Beyond its religious role, the church played an important civic function, with its bells once used as the city's fire alarm and emergency signal. Inside, it houses a memorial to the 46th Canadian Battalion, including two white oak Vimy Crosses commemorating soldiers who fought in the 1917 Battle of Vimy Ridge. Designed by architect F. Clapman Clemesha, the church features classic Gothic Revival elements such as lancet windows, buttresses, stone copings, and a vaulted nave, along with a seventy-foot crenellated tower containing nine bells and nine lancet windows, with one bell weighing 1900 pounds. The interior is equally striking, with stained glass windows, an oak barrel-vaulted ceiling, and intricately carved woodwork. With its architectural beauty, historical significance, and deep ties to the community, St. Aidan's Church remains one of Moose Jaw's most

Thunderbird Viaduct

— 4th Avenue N.W. (a.k.a. the 4th Avenue Bridge)

The Thunderbird Viaduct was built in 1929 by Winnipeg firm Carter, Halls and Aldinger and designed by bridge engineer Claude A. P. Turner, is valued for both its architectural significance and its connection to Indigenous heritage. Turner, known for designing bridges over the Mississippi and St. Croix rivers, incorporated ornamental elements such as multi-colored terra cotta light standards, balusters, and cameos into the viaduct's design. The bridge features three repeated cameos—one depicting a moose, symbolizing the community, and two others showing Indigenous figures, "Mike Oka" and "Bear Ghost," whose origins remain uncertain. The viaduct is further distinguished by its fluted concrete columns, decorated with Egyptian-style painted motifs. During renovations in the early 1990s, original decorative features were restored, and local potter Wendy Parsons created replica cameo tiles for the bridge's updated span. The viaduct also holds cultural significance, as it was built over a traditional Indigenous crossing of Thunder Creek. In 1952, City Council renamed it "Thunderbird Viaduct," inspired by both the Thunderbird's importance in Indigenous cultures and its connection to Thunder Creek, further cementing its role as a historically and architecturally significant landmark in Moose Jaw.

St. Mark's Presbyterian Church

— 80 High St. E.

St. Mark's Presbyterian Church has a unique history, having served three different religious communities and even an automotive garage. Originally constructed by the Methodist congregation, it was later sold to the Roman Catholics (1907-1913) before becoming a repair facility for the Central Motor Company in 1917, where automobiles were even assembled. In 1927, after renovations by architect Henry Hargreaves, local Presbyterians who opted out of the United Church union reclaimed the building as a place of worship, renaming it Knox Presbyterian Church—later St. Mark's Presbyterian Church after a 1967 merger. Designed by Percy Beesley, a former CPR employee from Montreal, the church originally featured red brick from Wellington White in Moose Jaw, now covered with stucco. It retains Gothic architectural elements such as buttresses, a steeply pitched gable roof, a lancet window, and an asymmetrically placed tower with an octagonal spire. It is the second oldest church in Moose Jaw.

Old Chinese United Church
– 303 High St. W.

The Chinese United Church is the oldest recorded building in Moose Jaw, constructed in 1883 during the city's early growth following the arrival of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Originally built by local Presbyterians, the Gothic vernacular-style church—with its lancet windows, steeply pitched gable roof, tower, and spire—was moved multiple times before settling at its current location in 1903 under the Free Methodists. In 1912, the building became central to the Chinese community, serving as a mission established with support from local citizens and churches. When it was a church it provided both spiritual and social functions, symbolizing the achievements, struggles, and contributions of the Chinese community in Moose Jaw.

Moose Jaw Fire Station
– 136-138 Fairford St. W.

The Moose Jaw Fire Hall, built in 1909, is a Municipal Heritage Property that served as one of the city's first fire stations until 1979. Designed by architect W.A. Elliot, it cost $35,000 to construct and housed both equipment and full-time firefighters. The building showcases Georgian Revival architecture, featuring symmetrical vehicle bays, dormer windows, and a distinctive tower with quoining and a flagpole. Beyond its functional role, the Fire Hall stands as a testament to Moose Jaw's civic pride and commitment to public safety.

Jitney Dance Hall – Connor Park

The Jitney Dance Hall, built in 1916, is a historic open-air venue in Moose Jaw's Connor Park. Originally part of a railway amusement park, it was a popular spot for dances and community gatherings in the 1920s and 1930s. After falling into disuse by the 1980s, it was restored in 1988 and remains the last surviving structure from the original park. Its rustic, open-air design, wooden support columns, and exposed rafters create a relaxed atmosphere, making it a unique and cherished landmark for local events.

CHRISTMAS IN MOOSE JAW

Walking in a Weekend Wonderland

It's the most wonderful time of the year—and in Moose Jaw, it comes early!

Whether it is our statuesque moose that welcomes you into the city, or the Christmas season: in Moose Jaw, we go big. When it comes to the holiday season, why not make it last?

Brought to you by Tourism Moose Jaw and the Downtown Moose Jaw Association, Christmas in October is the shopping and event extravaganza that has become a yearly tradition for many and ushers in the holiday season. The highly anticipated weekend returns to the Notorious City and invites guests to get in the holiday spirit early. The lights go up, the trees get trimmed, and the city is abuzz with the sights, sounds, flavours and merriment of the holiday season.

Make a holiday of it! Book into one of Moose Jaw's distinctively charming and alluring hotels and plan the ultimate Christmas shopping event. Wander through Moose Jaw's picturesque Downtown and from one door to the next and discover this year's seasonal best in one of Moose Jaw's many unique and independently owned boutiques and shops. When it is almost time to drop with all those bags, take the time to relax. Indulge yourself and soak up one of the many rejuvenating treatments Moose Jaw's incomparable and world-class spas have to offer. Take a load off and sip and savour in one of Moose Jaw's eclectic dining choices—sure to satisfy any appetite. Kick back and enjoy a nightcap in one of the local charming pubs or elegant lounges. Whatever your fancy may be, Christmas in Moose Jaw is the perfect opportunity to kick start your season in grand style.

Is it just one weekend of holiday fun? Fret not – what goes up, does not come down! Christmas in October welcomes the holiday season and the stage is set for the months ahead with plenty of time to enjoy what Moose Jaw has to offer.

Christmas in Moose Jaw is a notoriously great time. Come find out why.

It all begins October 23... and runs through the season.

— Sarah Moore Smith
